STAFF REPORTS
(I.1. and I.2.)

Judith Taylor, General Counsel, reported on the Voluntary Exclusion Program statistics for the month of January 2023 and transfer of ownership of the <https://ksgamblinghelp.com/> website.

- Commissioner Spalding asked who was taking over the <https://ksgamblinghelp.com/> site. General Counsel Taylor confirmed it is the Kansas Coalition on Problem Gambling.

Executive Director Brownlee reported:

- KRGC has filled the Government Relations Manager position, hiring Randy Evans February 6th. This position's duties will include the legislature, government relations, public information officer, oversight of regulations approval process, and coordinate the selection process for HHR.
 - Chairman Moses asks clarification on the position's responsibilities regarding regulations. Executive Director Brownlee says KRGC regulations must go through a state approval process. As well as being approved by the commissioners, regulations must be approved by the Department of Administration, the Attorney General's office, and the regulations go before the legislature's Regulatory Committee. The position's responsibilities will be shepherding the regulations through these processes. Chairman Moses asks if there has been any update on the sports wagering regulations that were sent to the Attorney General's office. Executive Director Brownlee says that there has not been an update.
 - Chairman Moses asks for clarification on the position's responsibilities regarding HHR. Executive Director Brownlee says that the commissioners will go through a selection process to determine who will receive organizational licenses. It will be this position's responsibility to coordinate the information, timing, meetings, and events of local officials in Sedgwick County, commissioners, and the applicant.
- KRGC is beginning to staff an investigation unit to deal sports wagering complaints and investigations, as well as illegal gambling investigations. Wade Schneider has been named the manager of that unit. Cedrick Daniels will be responsible for sports wagering complaints. Jim Root will continue as KRGC's lead agent for illegal gambling cases.
- KRGC plans to increase staffing with that unit but will not until the White-Collar Crime fund gets going. First deposits will not come into the fund until July of this year.

- The Illegal Gaming unit recently conducted an investigation of illegal electronic gaming machines in western Kansas. With the help of local law enforcement, warrants were served in three different counties. There were also warrants for two other locations, but by the time officers arrived the machines had been removed from the property.
 - Commissioner Spalding asks what happens after an illegal gambling device is seized. Executive Director Brownlee explains that KRGC seizes the machine, related currency, and paraphernalia. Then a forfeiture process occurs in civil court. The owner can argue in court for the return of the assets. It is possible for a criminal case to be brought, but that typically is up to the discretion of the local jurisdiction. Once the forfeiture process has occurred, if KRGC is awarded the machines, the machines are typically destroyed.
 - Commissioner Spalding asks whether it is rare for a criminal case to occur as a result of an illegal gaming device seizure. Executive Director Brownlee says that it is not rare, but more often-than-not it is only dealt with through civil forfeiture. He follows up noting that local jurisdictions do not prosecute these cases because they are short-handed and other cases are of a more serious nature. The Attorney General's office is also experiencing this issue and so their office is not prosecuting illegal gaming.
- Proposed HHR regulation were sent to industry partners. At the end of January, KRGC received suggestions back from those partners. KRGC is currently in the process of comparing those suggestions to the adopted draft regulations and adjusting them. Once completed, the regulations will be presented to the commissioners.
 - Commissioner Spalding asks what month KRGC will be meeting to discuss HHR. Executive Director Brownlee said that he does not know at this time but that it will be the commissioners that decide the meeting date.
- The HHR organizational license applications are due February 28th. KRGC has responded to seven entities who have expressed an interest in the application.
- This week committee hearings on KRGC's proposed budget in the House and Senate finished. The Senate Ways and Means Committee and the House Appropriations Committee have both approved the budget as recommended by the Governor. The next step is for the budget to come before the whole Senate and House. This typically occurs towards the end of the legislative session.

- There have not been any gaming specific bills introduced this legislative session. There was an interim committee, that had suggested they would recommend a bill that would deal with commission board member compensation. However, this bill has not yet been introduced.
- The Missouri legislature is pursuing sports wagering legislation. There are two bills going through the legislature currently.
- The Oklahoma legislature also has proposed a sports wagering bill.
- Texas has introduced legislation that will start a process to approve seven resort casinos in Texas. Sports wagering will be considered a part of casino operations. There is also a standalone sports wagering bill.
- Last year nationwide, sports wagering revenue reached $7.5 billion a 73% increase from 2021.
- GeoComply is the company assisting to ensure that betting is done within state boundaries. They provided the KRGC with some data following Super Bowl weekend.
 - During Super Bowl weekend, they processed 2.2 million geo-location checks in Kansas. Nationwide, they did over 100 million geo-location checks. 250,000 attempts from Missouri to wager in Kansas were blocked.
- According to American Gaming Association, 2022 gaming revenues increased 14% compared to 2021. December was the highest grossing month on record at $5.4 billion. In-house casino gambling accounted for 79% of those commercial gaming revenues, sports wagering grew to 12%, and internet gambling accounted for 8%.
- There were only four states with brick-and-mortar casinos that showed a decrease from 2021 to 2022. Kansas was one of those with a 0.5% decrease. The other states were Michigan, Mississippi, and South Dakota. The Kansas City gaming market increased 1.5% from 2021 to 2022.
- The Crosswinds Casino in Park City, owned by the Wyandotte Tribe, has purchased a hotel south of the casino location. They are currently renovating the property and hope to open the property as part of the casino.
 - Chairman Moses asks to clarify if the hotel will be turned into a casino. Executive Director Brownlee clarifies that he understands the intent is to keep the hotel as a hotel and that they will run a shuttle from the hotel to the casino.

- The next commission meeting is scheduled for March 17, 2023.
 - Commissioner Jones said he will not be able to attend. Chairman Moses asked Executive Director Brownlee if he anticipates information becoming available, as a result of the HHR organizational license application deadline, that needs to be shared with the commission. Executive Director Brownlee said that he anticipates information becoming available, but that no commission action will take place. Chairman Moses stated that the original meeting date will remain.
